

ScottMadden Announces Promotion of Justin Stevens to Partner

ATLANTA, GA – (December 4, 2019) – ScottMadden, Inc., one of North America’s leading management consulting firms specializing in energy, is pleased to announce the promotion of Justin Stevens to partner.

Justin Stevens is a leader in ScottMadden’s energy practice and oversees the firm’s strategy and services community of practice, which focuses on strategic and business planning, M&A analysis and integration, enterprise cost reduction, data analytics, benchmarking, and sustainability. With more than a decade of consulting experience, Justin has a track record of delivering successful client outcomes across a broad range of engagement types, including merger integration, organization design and restructuring, grid modernization, to name a few.

During his time at ScottMadden, Justin has led or supported numerous engagements in these areas for a diverse set of energy clients, including regulated electric and gas utilities, competitive energy suppliers, and regional transmission organizations (RTOs). In recent years, Justin has advised on several major regulated utility mergers, supported the largest new-member entry ever for an RTO, and led multiple enterprise cost-reduction efforts.

“Justin understands the energy sector and consults comfortably in a wide range of client issues, challenges, and settings. Some of our largest clients look to Justin for consulting support as they respond to the ever-changing landscape. We look forward to his continued thought-leadership as a member of the partner group,” says Brad Kitchens, president and CEO of ScottMadden.

Prior to joining ScottMadden in 2010, Justin developed expertise in public policy and the legislative process, while working at a public affairs consulting firm, specializing in government relations and strategic communications. Justin holds a B.A. in English and journalism from Wake Forest University and an M.B.A. from the Darden School of Business at the University of Virginia.
